Redtime

"The Merry New Year Show"*

Saturday, January 6, 2001 10:30 PM

The Bitter End, (212) 673-7030. 147 Bleecker St. between Thompson and LaGuardia. (ACEBFDQW to W 4thSt.)

Redtime hopes that 2000 treated you well and wishes you the best for 2001. The band spent New Year's Eve in a car. A lot of you will think this was probably due to touring, but it was actually just a party that Steve set up in his uncle's van/home. He told us that he would take the seats out, but he couldn't find a wrench so we all sat around and told him how weak his party was. The guys did, however, make a new round of resolutions, and here they are...

Ethan resolves that 2001 will be the year for higher quality dining, and thus spent his first night of the New Year at one of the really great Mexican restaurants in Manhattan.

Steve has resolved to be kinder to children, partly because of his big heart and partly because he punched this kid on Christmas and then told him that Santa Claus saw all of the dirty things he did the past year.

Andrew resolves to get better at the piano and to stop harassing Jon D with threatening phone calls late at night about how Jon's keyboard might have an "accident" if he ever sits in again.

Chris has decided to finally make good on last year's resolution and begin disclosing his herpes to most of his sexual partners.

Tim resolves to spend time at the library because, as he puts it, "If I read books, then I will succeed in life. I sure as hell can't keep pretending to be a bass player with a car."

Jon resolves to finish Law School in a timely fashion so he can try to beat the kidnapping wrap that presently hangs over his head. As he puts it, "It was nothing more than a good old fashioned stalking and this is just another way for 'the man' to keep Pacific Islanders from getting ahead."

* If your name is Mary, then the show is doubly worth going to.

Note: If your name is Teddy....well, you know.

For all of the fun and games around the Redtime e-mails, for all of the tasteless attacks on accomplished musicians, for all of the general mayhem that gets tossed around about upcoming gigs, there is also room for heartfelt thanks and real gratitude.

Redtime thanks all of you who support their desire to spread good music and entertaining live shows. It is truly a pleasure to see people enjoying the vision, and your support doesn't go unnoticed. Thank you for being a part of the Redtime family and we wish you and yours the best for the upcoming year.

Come out on the 16th and don't miss our good friend Teddy Goldstein at 8:30 PM, but if you're coming to see Teddy make sure to tell the door you're there to see Redtime, as Teddy doesn't need or want your money, your sympathy or your courtesy claps after botched songs.

Be sure to tell him he was great after the gig though, because if you don't he might quit music and stop talking to people.

Newly burned debut CDs are still available for $15. Send check to:

"The Higher Education Show"*

Saturday, February 9, 2001 10:30 PM

The Bitter End, (212) 673-7030. 147 Bleecker St. between
Thompson and LaGuardia. (ACEBFDQW to W 4th St.)

University of Redtime Early Spring Schedule!
Classes begin on Tuesday night!

At U of R you will get the personal instruction that is missing at so many other institutions of higher learning. We offer a "hands on" approach, with guaranteed results.

Just listen to what recent grad Teddy Goldstein is saying -- "I was like a guy on an island before I earned my degree. Now I feel like a guy on an island with a ton of chicks tempting me to be noticed."

New Classes Offered:

Music 101 - History of Rock and Roll

Dr. Sherman takes you on a magical journey through the history of Rock. From OMD to Duran Duran, every pocket of Rock will be explored. From Depeche Mode to the Thompson Twins, from Men At Work to Falco, no stone will be left unturned.

Note: A 25 page final paper will be required on any one of these topics: Howard Jones, General Public or Simple Minds.

Sociology 4400 - How to Act at a Club

Dr. Walsh and Dr. Cheek will team teach this upper division course. They will cover all aspects of club behavior, including "How to get on the list," "Do's and Don'ts on the dance floor," and "How to do blow in the bathroom."

Note: Must already have taken and passed

Soc. 101 - How to be Fake and Like it

Hum Ant. 200 - How to Lose Weight Quickly

History 2200 - Nordic Traditions

Dr. Jansveld will give a blow-by-blow account of Nordic History. He will cover farming, drinking clear liquor, being white and what it feels like to be cold. This course will require a field study in which the student is flown to Sweden and forced to act "ghetto" and claim "Crooklyn."

Mass Com 5467 - Fact or Fiction

Dr. Eubanks teaches this interactive course modeled around Late Night Infomercials and the spiritual teachings of Ronco. The course will explore whether the rotisserie B.B.Q actually does seal in the juices, whether it makes sense to put your sweaters in a vacuum-sealed space-saver and why you would need a car polish that combats the damage from a blowtorch.

PE 101 - Staying In Shape In New York City

Dr. Babu will offer modern solutions to the battle of the bulge. He will address such topics as "Are there any health clubs in NY?" and "Why don't I ever go to any health clubs in NY?" Required reading:

Why You Need a Health Club To Be Happy by Jerry Jive

The Great Cigarette Debate by Phillip Morris

* If you already have a higher degree you can still come to the show, but it isn't recommended.

"Don't Miss This Show"*

Saturday, February 17, 2001 10:30 PM

The Bitter End, (212) 673-7030. 147 Bleecker St. between
Thompson and LaGuardia. (ACEBFDQW to W 4th St.)

Upcoming Show: February 26, 2001, 9:30 PM

A top-shelf lineup for Saturday night. The full band with WhyNot on bass, Chris on sax, Andrew on keys, Jon on drums, Steve on guitar, Ethan on Ethan and Viv and Jill on backup vocals.

If you feel the love for Redtime, come out and join the party. If you haven't been in a while, come out and remind yourself of what it was that hooked you once upon a time.

Come for the music, the atmosphere, the soul, the madness and the very real chance that someone will probably offer you a great job at the gig.

Just ask Teddy Goldstein, who said after the last show, "I was just sitting there staring into space when this guy offered me a job working at his Dad's production company. I went to meet him the next day but the address turned out to be a burned down building. There was one guy standing inside but he didn't seem to know about the interview and mugged me. It could have been one of those New York dream jobs, though, so I guess it was worth it. I'd go again tomorrow if he asked me to."

Home-Burned CDs are still available...Send $15 Check or Money

"Reading is fundamental"*

Monday, February 26, 2001 9:30 PM

The Bitter End, (212) 673-7030. 147 Bleecker St. between Thompson and LaGuardia. (ACEBFDQW to W 4th St.)

Upcoming Shows: Mar. 13, 9:30pm - Mar. 30, 10:30pm

At a recent gig there was a girl who accused Redtime members of being stupid. She questioned whether or not we even read books. Well, we do, and we've put together a list of our favorites for your viewing pleasure. Whether curling up by the fire, spending a lazy day on the beach, or locked in your room trying to escape your sad life, these titles will expand your mind and trick people into liking you.

Confessions of a White Woman in America by Michael Jackson

A detailed account of the pop superstar's life that will appeal to music and sci-fi fans of all ages.

Heeeeeeeeeere's Jay by Jay Leno

This is the perfect book for anyone who likes Jay Leno or is about to die.

All Women are Ugly...Especially you by Cosmopolitan

This book addresses popular misconceptions about women's' health and beauty issues, most notably that women should be happy.

I Am Overrated by Tim Allen

This book contains a collection of jokes, stories and sayings that aren't funny.

I Wish I was Rated by Daniel Baldwin

Daniel's "Tell All" expose ends up leaving the reader wanting more, as most of his personal stories are about playing tag with his brothers.

"I loved This Movie!" by Rex Reed

This is just a list of every movie ever made followed by "I loved this movie!" - Rex Reed

*So is Redtime, though not in the Christian sense.

The Bitter End, (212) 673-7030. 147 Bleecker St. between Thompson and LaGuardia. (ACEBFDQW to W 4th St.)

Upcoming Show: Mar. 30, 10:30pm

With the Oscars right around the corner, I thought I might share a recent conversation I had with the band. We were all huddled around the TV on a rainy Sunday with the heat turned way up watching soft core. I thought it was a good time to ask what their favorite movies were...

Ethan- "My favorite movie ever was Star Wars. I thought Lucas's vision of Good versus Evil and the clearly Eastern inspired 'force' was brilliant. I also came for the first time ever while watching the scene where R2D2 and Chewy are playing chess."

Steve- "I'm really fascinated with movie makeup. Sometimes, after my girlfriend has left the house, I put on lots of lipstick and a short skirt and act trashy in front of the mirror. I also read books about makeup and movies"

WhyNot- "I think they should make a movie about a really tall bass player from Switzerland who gets tired of playing weak gigs in New York City. It would also be cool if he was rich and didn't have the clap."

Jon D. - "My parents didn't let me watch movies or eat fast food when I was little. I guess they were just being protective of their young son. I still wonder, though, why they told me that the Easter Bunny bites little boys and that sunshine is evil."

Bennett- "I spent most of my time growing up in a basement. I would play this game where I pretended to be directing a major motion picture. I also used to play a game where I pretended that I just ate dinner."

Jon B. - "I think Traffic should win the Oscar this year. The direction was flawless, the cinematography was breathtaking and they told my peoples' story with an even hand and an attention to detail. Viva Mexico!"

* First prize is "The Funk." Second prize is getting to pay your drink bill.

Note: Everyone is guaranteed at least a second place prize.

"E is an Emcee and He's Not Square"*

Come down early and check out Nini Camps & Lovepie @ 9:30!
(Featuring WhyNot and Ethan from Redtime)

The other day after our group discussion about the role of the male ego in sexual interaction we got to talking about who could think up the best invention. Though none our ideas will replace the toothpick anytime soon, it is this thirst for bettering our way of life that we share with Einstein, Edison and the writers of Encino Man.

Ethan- "When I was 13 I wanted to invent the ultimate drum set. I worked on it for days and days but it always seemed like I ended up with a length of PVC tubing with an empty pen stuck in a hole in the bottom and a rubber stopper on the end."

Steve- "I want to invent a machine that turns wood into gold. Then all I would have to do is wait for a camping trip so I could finally prove to my dad that I'm somebody."

WhyNot- "I would invent a bass guitar that has a red button labeled 'Funky Fresh,' and a white button labeled 'Heroin Mainline.'"

Andrew- "I tried to invent a way to record dreams with a camcorder when I was in college but it seemed like lots of girls took it the wrong way."

Jon D- "I need to figure out a way to invent something small that you could store a bunch of information on like phone numbers and calendars. It would be affordable and it would have to fit in a jacket pocket. That kind of invention could really change my life."

Chris- "I would invent a machine that predicts the stock market results. That way I would know ahead of time when the market was going to drop and I could be ready to be supportive of people who lost money."

Jon- "I want to invent a TV that only plays reruns of Silver Spoons so I can spend some quality time with my friend Teddy, a box of tissues and 'The Ricker.'"

* Happy Birthday to Celine Dion, who turns 33 the night of the gig, isn't an Emcee and is square.

Note: This email has no official connection with Albert Einstein or his family. They backed out at the last minute.

DOUBLE SET!!!

WITH A TEDDY GOLDSTEIN DOUBLE SET AT 8:00 PM!

This will be a great evening of live music with the full band. Never before have 2 groups offered double sets in the same night, as far as I know. Just listen to what people are saying...

"If I could go to this show I would consider moving back to the U.S."
- Elian Gonzales

"I'm debating between the show and a sit-down brainstorm about my career...I think you'll see me Monday."
- Anthony Michael Hall

"I have always supported Chinese Music."
- George W. Bush

"Playing music for 2 hours without stopping...now that's really impressive."
- Sting

"If you let me yell at a head of lettuce I'll consider showing up."
- Tom Green

"Most my economic decisions are actually based on the Redtime schedule."
- Alan Greenspan

"It's a widely understood fact that in New York City the better band usually plays first."

-Teddy Goldstein

*Though these weren't real critics, my friend knows one and he loves Redtime.

Note: Happy Birthday to Valerie Bertinelli, who turns 41 the night of the gig.

"The 'Hey, I know you' show."*

TEDDY GOLDSTEIN AT 9:30 PM!

The guys couldn't stay away from the stage. Come out and join us Tuesday and remember what you've been missing.

With Memorial Day soon on Monday I thought it might be nice to find out what the guys remember from their pasts, in one way to celebrate their diversity and in another to remember everyone who gets remembered on Memorial Day...

Ethan- I remember my 2nd grade teacher, Mr. Talvee. He said I was more interesting than his wife and definitely a better listener.

Steve- I remember one time when I got lost on my way home from getting beaten up by my sister at the arcade. I ended up at the library where I got back at everyone by reading books for free.

Andrew- I celebrate my favorite actor, John Goodman, whose career has inspired me to break off on my own sometime soon. He kicked ass in The Matrix.

WhyNot- I remember seeing live shows in Greenland in the 70's. There was a really great band there at the time. Actually it wasn't really a band, but when my Dad got drunk he would make us pretend that he was a singer and that he was nice to be around.

Chris- I think we should celebrate the men and women who have given their lives in defense of our fine country.

Jill- I remember when I joined Redtime and they told me that they were already famous and that they only played in the clubs to "stay real," and to "give back."

Jon B. - I remember moving to New York at the age of 17, straight out of military school with nothing more than a black leotard, a tube of hair gel and the burning desire to fall in love.

* Not you specifically, but that whole concept of people as a whole.

Note: People sometimes win money at gigs. Your chances of winning are 4 in 0.

A GREAT BIG ROCKIN' NIGHT OF MUSIC!
ALL AGES WELCOME - BRING THE KIDS

THE FUN BEGINS AT 7:30 PM with...

Teddy Goldstein - The Love Doctor is in.
Vivid - The Vocal Styling of Viv (from Redtime), and her band.

Redtime - Check with The Village Underground for official set time if you can't make it down early enough to enjoy these two great bands before Redtime.

Redtime hopes you had a bountiful Thanksgiving filled with friends and family and love. Here's what we did...kinda

Ethan - I got a bunch of needy children together at my apartment and let them look my new computer while I ate stuffing. Then I told them all that the Great Turkey would be showing up later to give them all food and presents. Then I told them to go home and wait very quietly.

Steve - I had a virtual Thanksgiving on the Internet with some really cool friends I met in a chat room. I was "LOL" ing during the first course, had to "BRB" during the turkey eating and by dessert all I could do was ;) Then I jerked off quietly to some downloaded porn while my wife slept in the next room.

Andrew - My family did Thanksgiving the same way we have for the last 5 years. First the cat hunt, then the eating contest and finally the all important spanking.

Chris - I had three pretend friends over for an imaginary Thanksgiving dinner. It would have been great but one of them brought this girl with him who wouldn't stop talking and had nothing really interesting to say. But then I remembered that she was only in my imagination and she could just as easily be tied up and gagged in my bedroom. It ended up being a really fun night.

Jill, Viv & Jen - We went to a soup kitchen to sing to the homeless. Everyone was really cool except for this one guy Terry, who showed us his shiv while in line and has now started appearing at our gigs demanding that he's "on the list," and "engaged to one of The Singers."

WhyNot - I prepared a traditional Dutch dish called Grurster, which is basically snow and cheese served on white roll with butter.

Jon B. - Oh yeah, I love dark meat. Most weekends I hit the hip-hop clubs with a fistful of EX and...wait...what did you ask?

* Redtime gigs are like really cool comas that you get to wake up from if you want.

And don't forget to check out the website for future gigs, contact info, photos, and a mess of other "stuff."
